

SCHOOL TEACHER – NORTHERN IRELAND

This sheet covers both Primary and Secondary teachers in Northern Ireland.

Please see separate occupation sheets for teachers in England, Scotland and Wales.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

School teachers may teach in nursery, primary, secondary or special schools. Primary teachers are expected to cover every curriculum subject and some may have a specialism that they develop and teach throughout the school. Secondary school teachers normally specialise in one or two subjects and usually teach these subjects to all age groups (12 to 18) and abilities.

Definitions are as follows:

Overseas Trained Teacher (OTT) – someone who has successfully completed a programme of professional teacher training in a country outside the UK that is recognised by the competent authority in that country.

Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) – QTS status is awarded by the Department of Education for Northern Ireland to teachers recognised as being qualified to UK standards.

General Teaching Council for Northern Ireland (GTCNI) – professional body with which all teachers working in grant-aided schools must register.

INDUSTRY REQUIREMENTS

Grant-aided Schools -

In Northern Ireland, an OTT who gained their qualifications outside the EU must apply to the Department of Education for Northern Ireland and be granted QTS prior to teaching. Before awarding QTS, the Department of Education for Northern Ireland must be satisfied that an OTT's qualifications are at a standard at least equal to that of a UK trained teacher.

Independent Schools -

There is no statutory requirement for a teacher in the private sector to hold QTS or to be registered. The Head Teacher of the school decides which qualifications to accept.
